For Circuit Judge

It is pretty generally known—especially among the lawyers—that suit was brought last year for the purpose of testing the constitutionality of the act of the last Legislature changing the Thirty-Seventh Judicial District, by taking from it the county of Carter and adding to it the county of Lawrence.

Not desiring to anticipate the decision of the courts, by choosing between Carter and Lawrence in making my public announcement for Judge, I have until now refrained from doing so; only saying that I would be a candidate in the Thirty-Seventh District, regardless of what counties composed it.

On Friday of last week the appellate court overruled the petition for rehearing in the case and settled the question finally and the old district, composed of Carter, Elliott and Morgan is still intact and I am now making public announcement of my candidacy.

In so doing it is perhaps to be regretted that I have never been able to convince myself that my picture would be sufficiently striking to be of interest to the public for the front page of a newspaper; nor that my personal autobiography would be of sufficient importance to publish. My official acts in the past and what may be expected of me in the future, if elected, is that which concerns.

That there is more unrest than ever before, among the people of many counties of the state with respect to the appalling financial condition of their county—just how their money has been spent and how in the future it shall be spent—cannot be denied. In fact many of the courts of the state have been having their grand juries look into this; and in the selection of all officers from the governor down, this is of more importance to all the people than any other one thing.

That there is more agitation and, with many, more uneasiness concerning the prohibition laws than ever before, is a conceded fact. That the national leaders in both parties are in favor of having a change in these laws is admitted. In fact the Congress has already amended the Volstead act so as to eliminate therefrom that part which prohibited the sale of "old time" beer. And that other changes may be made, is by many not doubted and it is of serious importance to the people—especially the young people—that the courts see that the law under which the sale of liquor is permitted is strictly enforced. That he who is permitted to sell liquor under the law, shall respect and strictly observe the law.

That crime is ever-increasing and spreading throughout the country, is generally recognized and while the rural sections have not had to deal, to any great extent, with the more and more dangerous ones—robbery and burglary—these are asserting themselves—very recently a train hold-up in Lawrence and several burglaries in Morgan, by men who "do business" in trucks.

All those who have made a study of crime and crime conditions agree that these conditions are encouraged and brought about by the failure of the courts to enforce the law "to all alike." That the only preventative remedies are strict enforcement and speedy trials; and my position with respect to these remedies is well known throughout the district. May 5, 1933. J. B. HANNAN

INFLATION AND THE FARMER

We have heard folks argue that inflation of the currency, bringing higher prices for farm commodities will not do the farmer any good because it will increase the cost of things he buys by just so much as it increases the cost of what he sells. We do not think that is true.

In our opinion, the farmer will be the first as well as the greatest beneficiary of any change in our currency system which diminishes the purchasing power of the dollar. The farmer's cost of production has not fallen anywhere nearly as much as the prices he gets for his products have fallen. Labor cost on the farm is down a little; feed and fertilizers are slightly cheaper, but insurance, interest on mortgages, and tax-shares increased while prices of farm products have gone down.

Not long ago a farmer could get eight to ten dollars for a cowhide; now he is lucky, most places to get fifty cents. Have any of our farmer readers had occasion to sell a cow recently? We hear of cows which were worth $75 to $100 three years ago being sold for $5, one cowhide will make eight pairs of shoes, but it takes nine of them to buy one pair. One farmer told lately of getting a pair of shoes for the price of seven hundred pounds of corn.

It is reported that nearly half the output of the U. S. Steel Corporation went into things used on the farms. It is going to help that business and all other business when the farmer can again have a surplus to spend; though it is hard to figure much of a surplus so long as taxes absorb all that leave the prosperous farmer earns.

We know of farms that have been sold for taxes; we have heard of farmers selling their farms away to escape responsibility. We do not think that any kind of inflation could make conditions worse. Southern Echo

Georgia Sets the Pace

The Legislature of the State of Georgia has refused to call a convention to oppose the Eighteenth Amendment. That is as it should be. The people of Georgia do not want the Amendment repealed and the action of its Legislature is only carrying out the wishes of its people. Following the action of Georgia the people of Kentucky should only elect men to the Legislature who are unalterably opposed to the repeal of the Amendment. Mt Sterling Gazette.

GEORGE M. BELLAMY

The sudden and tragic death of George M. Bellamy on Wednesday morning, May 10, 1933 was a great shock to the entire community and county. He had been one of the prominent merchants of Morgan county for several years. He was loved by both the young and old because of his kindness and genial disposition. Although he had been in poor health for the past year, he continued his business activities and still remained chairman of the board of trustees of West Liberty, a position he had held for several years.

In the death of Mr. Bellamy the community has lost one of its best loved and most worthy citizens. The family has lost a devoted and a kind and loving father.

The sympathy of all goes out to his lost of friends and to his family in this hour of sorrow.

George M. Bellamy, son of Robert P. and Cornelia E. Bellamy, was born November 8, 1875 in Wise county, Virginia, and came to Morgan county when he was a young man.

He was married to Alma L. Blair, daughter of W. H. Blair, February 23, 1900. To this union was born 11 children, 8 of whom survive, as follows: William R. of Morrow, Ohio, Emerson A. of Morrow, Ohio, Luther D. of Morehead, Ora S. of West Liberty, Elizabeth E. of West Liberty, Vivian, Dorothy, and Dwayne M. at home.

He is also survived by 8 grandchildren and 3 brothers and 2 sisters. Funeral services will be conducted today by Rev. Harlan Murphy and interment made in the Salzer cemetery.

GOVERNOR LAFFOON ACTIVE

Governor Laffoon is getting his second wind (let us hope it isn't slumpy wind) and has notified the Highway Department and other spending agencies of the state to forward to him for approval or disapproval any contracts, contemplated purchases or expenditures of any character, in the future.

The Governor says the action is made necessary by existing conditions. He promises to take control of state expenditures. Just how the Governor is going to exercise this control has not yet been disclosed.

One thing is sure. The Constitution of the state distinctly forbids creating a state debt in the way that it has been and is being created.

If Governor Laffoon is now entering upon a course of action under which the Administration will function within its income, function; the Constitution demands that it shut itself out. It will still have a chance to redeem himself with the great body of honest to goodness Kentucky taxpayers who had lost all confidence in the man who had completely oversold himself.

Critical Issue

Ordinarily big problems of government may be summed up by comments concerning a few outstanding problems. But the present situation that involves direct contact between the President and the leaders of the European Governments over war debts, tariffs and the kind of money the United States will make and use, the situation is more complex right now than it was in war days.

Despite big breaks in opposition to some of the Roosevelt policies there is the same abiding faith in President Roosevelt that was voiced so loudly in the halls of Congress at the very beginning of his Administration. The only difference is that some of the older Senators and Representatives are ready to call a halt on the race to vacate their powers and their duties by "passing the buck" to the President of the United States. In short Congress, is gradually recovering from its disposition to lend itself as a rubber stamp to the White House. This is a good sign since it lends assurance to the feeling that democracy will hold the fort over the Capitol.

Meeting at Grassy

A card has just reached us from Rev. L. J. Scudder, Wichita, Kan. announcing the all day meeting at Grassy Creek on Sunday, May 11 with dance on the ground. The presiding elder, Rev. V. L. Moore, will preach. Everybody is invited to attend.

Rev. and Mrs. Scudder have enjoyed their visit, but their thoughts are on their work here. They expect to return today or tomorrow.

Leroy Hanes is building an addition to the building occupied by our grocer, Norman Gullett.

MOTHER'S DAY—MAY 11TH

The greatest events of this world are not revolutions, and economic conferences and banking reforms. The great events of this world are babies. The most important people in this world are not soldiers, and statesmen and bankers. The most important people in this world are mothers, who are called upon to bring into existence a new generation.

So it is fitting that on Mother's Day we honor mothers. It is even more fitting that on this day we should make steps to make motherhood safe for them, as it is agreed by leading authorities that at least half the 16,000 women who annually die in childbirth could be saved by adequate maternity care.

A meeting aimed to help remedy this situation is scheduled to be held in New York City May 12th, with Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, as principal speaker. A number of outstanding medical authorities and educational leaders are to be on the program. Emphasis is to be placed on the two important steps to be taken. First, people should understand that much depends upon the choice of the doctor, and select one known to have had experience in maternity cases. After selecting him, parents must trust his judgment, and not try to prevail upon him to make palatable a process which cannot always be made free from pain without increasing the risk of infection and other undesirable complications.

Second, if a hospital is chosen, it should be one of high standards, such as those approved by the American College of Surgeons, for despite the fact that each year finds more women going to hospitals, there is no corresponding decrease in the mortality rate. In fact, many authorities believe it is safer for a woman to have her baby at home, if conditions there are suitable, unless the mother's condition requires special care.

The Maternity Center Association of New York, which is sponsoring the Mother's Day meeting, has made a notable contribution to knowledge of what adequate maternity care can do to save mother's lives. Among 4,723 women under their care over a period of eight years in a certain section of New York City, the death rate was reduced two-thirds.

Among those to be present at the Mother's Day meeting are:

Miss Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor; Surgeon-General Hugh S. Henshaw; Miss Grace Abbott, Chief of the Children's Bureau; Dr. Walter Chippman, medical obstetrician of Montreal; Dr. Lushy Williams, Managing Director of the New York Academy of Medicine; Dr. J. Allison Hodges, President of the Medical Society of the State of Virginia and Dr. S. S. Goldwater, of the American Hospital Association.

With such an imposing array of well-informed and influential people behind this movement to "Make Motherhood Safe for Mothers," it is not so much to expect the new deal to include the "Forgotten Woman."

MEETING TO CLOSE

The Daily Vacation Bible school and Adult Bible school which has been holding two sessions daily for the past five weeks will close Saturday according to the statement made by Rev. Eck, who has complete charge of same.

Among the scholars present, Miss Marie Elam won the highest score for Bible memorizing and attendance. Miss Anna Mae Walton was second and deserves honorable mention for accurate memorizing. Among the juniors, Helen Taylor was exceptional in her Bible work memorizing. Thirnet Taylor was second and is unusual in student work. Wanda Lee Ferguson, Elta Mae Combs, William Minor, Leta and Melva Ferguson won special awards for memorizing and Helen Taylor was awarded distinctive award for her splendid work in both schools.

The entire community feels very grateful for the fine work Rev. Eck has done and is indebted as a minister and Bible teacher of the highest type and standing.

Besides the above activities Rev. Eck has held a series of meetings and was an earnest worker for the Brushy Fork Sunday school recently organized which had a class attendance of 150.

To Legislative Candidates

The coming session of the state legislature will be a particularly important one. History will be written at this session and it is important that that history should be written according to the best thought and the most worthy aspirations of the citizenship of our state. The representatives to be elected from Morgan county and the state senator to be elected from the 31st senatorial district will spend for Morgan county. In order that voters may get the kind of legislation they want it is important that they know the candidates' attitude toward the problems in which they are interested. We list here, somewhat in the order of their relative importance, certain fundamental subjects which will almost surely be considered by the coming legislature in some form; and the voter wants to know the attitude of the man who is to speak for him on each one. Legislative candidates should furnish that information.

1. In his message to the legislature Governor Laffoon will ask for the surrender of legislative duties by the legislature and have certain rights and powers conferred upon himself. It will be the governor's contention that he wants to use the powers to which he wants to reorganize the departments of state government. Mr. legislative candidate, Morgan voters want to know your attitude on this subject.

2. The imposition of new taxes to the amount of approximately $10,000,000 through the medium of a general sales tax which will fall most heavily on the persons least able to pay will surely come before the session at an early date. If elected what will be your attitude?

3. The state of Kentucky still collects taxes from every piece of real estate which it has not already confiscated for taxes due. Coupled with the right to tax the state tax commission exercises the right to revise assessments. A constitutional amendment giving the legislature power to exempt all or any class of real estate from state taxes will be voted on by the people. In the event of passage of this amendment and your election will you do your bit to take the state tax off real estate which is held by citizens of the state and occupied as a home?

4. Morgan county voters want to know your attitude toward the 18th Amendment. Will you be for or against calling a convention to act on the question? Will you be for or against repealing the Kentucky act to enforce the 18th Amendment at this time?

5. That governmental agency in certain which should have been the best to feed the heavy hand of the depression, our public schools, was in reality the first; and that part of the system which needed state protection the most was the most numerically used. The state of Kentucky which should be equally interested in every child of the state folds its arms and closes its eyes in indifference at the spectacle of seeing children in one part of the state limited to educational advantages to an expenditure of from 85 or 89 per pupil per year while in another part of the state pupils of the same grades have spent on them from public funds from $15 to $50 per year. If elected to the legislature what do you propose to do about this?

6. The federal government and nearly all the state governments which have rather loose business habits have balanced their budgets and set their financial structure in order. Kentucky still flounders in the mire. Morgan county voters are anxious to know what contribution their representative and senator will make toward putting our state and our county on a business footing. Are you willing to just let things drift? The voter is no longer willing to do that and he is looking for a candidate who can show him the way out of our present predicament.

7. An effort will be made to repeal the law which was passed for political expediency and which allows the executive committees of either or both political parties to set aside the primary laws of the state and the committee itself nominate the candidates for the various state offices. Are you for or against the people on this subject? The voters want to know.

8. A budget system both for the state and for the counties which is easy of operation and effective in results and which will make officials responsible under their bond for incurring obligations beyond the current funds will be sought. What will be your attitude on this question?

9. In the event that the legislature will refuse to give to the governor the anticorrupt power which he craves what is your plan for dealing with the state's financial problem?

10. A reduction in the price of the automobile license tax; the passage of a modern auto drivers' license law; the election of the County Superintendent of schools by popular vote; and many other important subjects will come forward for an answer more satisfactory than now prevails. Have you any thought on these subjects? 11. No man has a moral right and no conscientious man wants to sit in the state legislature and betray the people who sent him there. We have outlined here some subjects in which the people of Morgan county are vitally interested at this time. It is up to the man who wants their votes to leave no doubt in the mind of any voter as to just what he intends to do on any and all of these vital subjects.

ONCE AGAIN

The West Liberty Ball Club lost their second game of the season to Hazel Green at Hazel Green Sunday, May 7, with a score of 3 to 1.

It was a hard fought game and Hazel Green won by taking advantage of the errors made by West Liberty. Many of the errors however can be attributed because of the very bad condition of the playing field.

We liked the game. We liked the way our boys fought until the last minute to pull it out of the fire. We liked the way Hanes pitched, and the way he fanned Bob Melin twice. We liked Ope McKenzie's infield hit that scored Hanes. And we would have liked to have seen McKenzie line one out in the ninth too, with two on base.

We want to thank L. L. Williams for the red caps that he gave us and are sorry that we forgot to mention that last week.

We would like to see you all come out and see us beat Darbork Sunday, May 11, at West Liberty. How about it?

The box score follows:

Hazel Green	3	7	3
West Liberty	1	7	8

See you Sunday? W. D. SPARKS

COUNTY AGENTS' COLUMN

Fewer Hens, More Eggs

Grayson county farmers sold 13,030 cases of eggs in March of this year, compared to 3,100 cases in March, 1918, despite the fact that the poultry population of the county decreased from 1920 to 1930, as indicated in the census reports.

The 300,000 hens in the county averaged 13 eggs each during March, while a flock of 114 hens owned by Mrs. W. V. Kelly, who is cooperating with County Agent H. S. Patterson in demonstrating the value of good practices, averaged 24 eggs per hen. Her flock averaged 135 eggs since October 1, or 70 percent production.

Mr. Patterson, with the assistance of the College of Agriculture, has conducted an intensive educational campaign, in which he has remade the poultry industry and made Grayson one of the leading poultry counties of the state.

Lespedeza Valuable

Kentucky farmers sowed 4,500,000 pounds of Korean lespedeza this spring or 50 percent more than they sowed in 1932. Ninety percent of the seed used this year went into pasture and hay mixtures.

The seeding of 4,500,000 pounds this spring might be compared with the 50 pounds sowed in the state in 1924, only nine years ago. In that year Ralph Kenny, an extension field agent for the College of Agriculture, began testing and studying the adaptability of this oriental hay and pasture crop to Kentucky conditions.

The College of Agriculture has worked steadily to demonstrate the place of lespedeza on the farms of Kentucky, both as a hay and pasture crop and as a soil builder. Hundreds of farmers in every section of the state have cooperated with county agents and the college in trying Korean.

Approximately 90 percent of the Korean in the state is in counties having agricultural agents.

The value of Korean lespedeza to Kentucky farmers for hay, pasture and seed was estimated at $4,760,000 last year. This year's crop should be worth much more.

Peach Prospects

Lexington, Ky., May—Prospects for a peach crop in Kentucky are better than was thought a month ago, according to W. W. Magill of the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, who has inspected orchards in most of the state.

Hardy varieties are carrying a fair crop in the Louisville region, he found, while in the Henderson district all varieties in many orchards show prospects of a fair crop. The Bluegrass region and northern part of the state were hard hit by the February freeze and will have only a limited crop, with total failures in many orchards.

Peach trees throughout central and western Kentucky and in parts of eastern Kentucky were found affected by the peach leaf curl. A thorough dormant spray, applied between Dec. 1 and March 1, is the usual method of controlling this disease.

Failure to prevent leaf curl this year is believed by Mr. Magill to have resulted in many instances from lack of care in applying the spray material. The job must be done thoroughly and five to six gallons of a standard fungicide used per tree.

Since the control season is past, Mr. Magill now advises the immediate use of a nitrogen-carrying fertilizer, together with cultivation, in order to stimulate affected trees to throw out new leaves. Two to three pounds of such fertilizers as nitrate of soda or sulfate of ammonia, applied broadcast under the spread of the branches, will tend to stimulate new foliage and the recovery of trees from attacks of peach leaf curl.

THE FAIR

However deeply we may regret the embarrassed state of business and financial condition of our country it does not become us to disparage our government, either county, state or national, nor to discourage it from making proper effort toward relief. It is no honor to us to have such reports published about our county as has recently appeared in the daily papers.

It is our duty to encourage our officials and help them to decide the best means to place our county on a higher condition both civilly and financially. We still have resources, and wise, sensible people and we hope that prudent management will restore our good name and sound affairs.

The danger of well established governments arise from the passion and prejudice of the citizens. Let's remember that officials are only ordinary humans and generally act upon the persuasions of the sentiment of the masses.

In ancient Rome the people would shout for one or the other leaders, each leader had his party and followers but Rome had none. They would cry for the spoils or favors. All forgot the real object, which was Rome, and Rome fell.

Applying sensible, fair and sober judgment to the condition of our country, before we charge any one individual responsible, analyze the whole affair and see if it is the result of certain methods that have existed for many years and have accumulated and brought about the present conditions.

Then a careful, sensible and reasonable plan would be to find out truthfully our present condition and work to meet all just obligations. Be fair, be honest, be open to the people and they will give their hearty support.

BERNARD E. WHITT

A BETTER PROGRAM

Dear People's Column:

Official figures from Great Britain for the year of 1932 show 184,250 persons injured and 6,474 killed in automobile accidents, a substantial increase over 1931. Authorities agree that the principal cause of these accidents was liquor; about nine-tenths of the liquor drunk was beer. In proportion to the number of cars, the list of accidents on the road in America was between a third and a fourth of the number in Great Britain. The rate of automobile deaths in Great Britain is one for less than every 400 cars. That rate would bring America 6,500,000 fatalities when, and if, prohibition is removed. There would be more than twice as many killed as we lost in the great war, more than ten times as many injured.

The Canadian Bureau of Statistics, corresponding to our census bureau reports that since 1930 there has been a constant increase in convictions for drunken driving; the figure for 1932 being thirty-six times as great as the figure for 1920.

What about the financial cost to the nations?

We learn from British official report that before the recent economic depression, a billion and a half dollars was paid for alcoholic liquor, of which beer accounted for a very large part. The proportionate figure for a wet United States would be more than four billion dollars! No wonder the brewers in this country feel justified in pouring out a few million dollars to finance the deluge of wet propaganda. How many millions of our automobile drivers must be among the vast number required to consume the liquor quota? From what quarter are we to look for more safety on the highway and for relief from the depression? Is this a wise economic move to encourage our people to waste four billion dollars in order that the Government may collect one and a half millions in taxes? Another why not give the Government we profess to love one and a half million dollars and spend wisely or save 3 billion and 850 million dollars yearly? A fifth grade child can see the wisdom in that program.

 Yours for a sober people.
 HERBERT L. HENRY

LEGION ACTIVITIES

Holly Coffee Post No. 68, American Legion, held its regular meeting Saturday, May 6th with a good attendance. Vice-Commander Phil Donovan presided as Commander Bruce F. Reed was absent for the first time since being elevated to the highest position in our post.

There were many interesting discussions. Adjutant Nickell gave a brief talk on Compensations and Disability Allowances, cautioning men who receive notices of their claims being discontinued to be extremely careful in preparing their proofs and other data for reinstatement of their claim for one reason only, and that is if you apply for reinstatement and fail to prove your claim your case will be forever closed. Adjutant Nickell is an able and well informed attorney and as all ex-service men know he is giving most of his time to the services of the Legion post here, and he has offered his services to all ex-service men in preparing their claims, and we suggest to all before you take up anything with the Veterans Bureau that you consult Adjutant Nickell. His office is located over the Commercial Bank.

There were many short talks on Morgan county's cost of operation, and future success and a lunch of resolutions prepared and adopted which explains in detail just what Holly Coffee Post members numbering 185 demand.

The Legion has gone on record as being in favor of a Morgan County Taxpayers League. A committee has been appointed to work out the details and no doubt these will be ready for the Courier at its next issue.

To all Legionnaires and ex-service men who were not present, it was your loss and I want to impress upon you the importance of being present at our next meeting which will be held at our hall Saturday, May 20th, at 1:30 P. M.

H. A. S.

Notice Teachers

At the regular meeting of the Holly Coffee Post No. 68 American Legion, held May 6th, our Chairman of Americanism, Joseph Allen, called the members' attention to the fact that more than three-fourths of our schools in Morgan county operate without an American flag being displayed and that most of our instructors have failed to explain to the students the origin of the American flag, and the Legion has gone on record as sponsoring a movement to have an American flag displayed on the grounds of each school in Morgan county, and also that the students be taught the history of our glorious old Red, White and Blue. Chairman Allen is working up the details of this proposition which he hopes to be able to present to you at the teachers conference.

To The People of Morgan County:

On account of financial conditions and otherwise, we as citizens and ex-service men and as a body of 185 members of Holly Coffee Post No. 68 of the American Legion of Kentucky, at our regular meeting today, May 6th 1933, that justice, freedom and democracy may prevail in our county, state and nation, form, pledge and strive unanimously for the fulfillment of the following resolutions, and for their accomplishment, to-wit:

First: That officers and officials of Morgan county carry on the affairs of the county to the best interests of all citizens.

Second: That no further obligations financially or otherwise, be created that will increase the liabilities on the taxpayers' property in Morgan county.

Third: That all superfluous appointive positions be eliminated.

Fourth: That the county be operated on a cash basis, and all salaries, debt payments, interest, etc., be held within the bounds of receipts.

Fifth: That all schools of the county receive the best that can be had with money collected for same.

Sixth: That equal consideration be shown to all citizens of the county who are in need in the securing of relief money, merchandise, etc., that is being sent here by the state, nation and Red Cross to be distributed.

Seventh: That the county adopt the budget system in conformity with the laws of the state.

Eighth: That all claims allowed by the Fiscal Court be published in the Licking Valley Courier immediately after said claims are allowed, in order that the taxpayers may know how their money is being spent.

Ninth: That all County Claims now outstanding be put on an equal basis and that the County Budget provide a sum, annually, to be applied pro rata on the payment of said claims, and that no new claims be allowed unless provision has been made for same in the budget, and unless same can be paid in cash.

Tenth: We urgently request all officers and officials now in office to give full support to these resolutions, and we ask all men who are running for office at the present time in this county to approve these resolutions publicly if you expect to receive our consideration.

Justice to all, partiality to none, Holly Coffee Post No. 68, American Legion of Kentucky.

BOB JONES COMMENTS

On the wall of one of the rooms in the Bob Jones College there hangs this motto: "When in doubt, play safe."

A few years ago I met an old minister in the State of Pennsylvania. He told me that he was reared in Alabama. "I used to be a telegraph operator," the old man said. "The first week I was on duty I had an interesting experience. A message came over the wire saying that trains number thirtyseven and number thirtyeight would pass at my station. I was ordered to slide-track thirtyseven. A few minutes later while sitting at the desk thinking, I heard train thirtyseven blow coming from one way, and train thirtyeight blow coming from the other way. I had forgotten which one to put on the slide-track. My heart sank. I felt faint. Something had to be done. 'What did you do?' I asked. 'I flagged both of them. Then, later I wrote to headquarters and told them the story just as it was. I thought I would lose my job. But I received a letter saying, 'We congratulate you, young man. When in doubt, 'play safe.'"

Men tell me they don't believe in hell. "When in doubt, play safe." I am going to figure that there is a hell. If there isn't any, I shall be all right. If there is one, those who figure that there is none, might be all wrong.

When I was fourteen years old I knelt by my mother's dying bed and I took her hand and pressed it upon my achings brow that I might remember her during touch forever. I promised to meet her in heaven. A few minutes later the stillness of the room was broken by the sob of my father's cry as he said, "Son, mother's dead." Her body sleeps in a lonely cemetery in Southeast Alabama. I have sat by her grave many a time until the twilight shadows of the evening would gather, and I have listened to the funeral dirge played by the wind in pine trees near by. I've said, "Mother, I'll see you again." They tell me I am dreaming. Well, don't wake me. If my religion is only

Lawyers Urge New Calendar

Calendar reform, as a measure of economic reconstruction, is being considered by the American Bar Association, with a view to reaching an international agreement for a new calendar to go into effect in 1939.

At a hearing of the Bar Association's Committee on Commerce, held recently in New York, the legislative procedure for changing the calendar was carefully reviewed. It was pointed out that "it is essential the new plan shall be put into effect in a year when there will be the minimum of transitional disturbance, and when the existing order of the days will be such as to maintain, during the transition, the utmost measure of chronological uniformity." Such a year, when January 1 comes on Sunday, happens to occur in 1939, and then not again until 1950. In other words, unless the change can be legislated for 1939, calendar reform will have to wait 17 years, until 1950.

The calendar reform which is most generally being supported is not the 13-month plan, but a revision of the 12-month year, in which the year is divided into equal quarters. Advocacy of this plan, known in America as the "World Calendar," is under the leadership of Miss Elisabeth Achelis of New York. Speaking at the Bar Association hearing Miss Achelis said, "The increased cost of a 13-month year would be a serious item of expense in many directions. There would be an extra month closing of all accounts and tabulations, an eight per cent increase in the number of billings and postage, 13 instead of 12 readings of meters, monthly rentals and all other monthly operations in business, professions and homes."

In the "World Calendar" every year

will begin on Sunday, and the sequence of weekdays in the months will be invariable.

The Bar Association learns that the League of Nations will undertake its next international conference on calendar reform in 1935. The United States will participate fully in this 1935 meeting. It is announced.

Leadership in the international agreement for a new calendar is expected to come from America, England, France, Germany and Italy. "American opinion," Miss Achelis stated, "is rapidly crystallizing in favor of the World Calendar. The same plan, under other names, has already received the official approval of certain European nations and the semi-official support of others. We hope to be able to report, before 1935, the full adherence of Great Britain, Germany, and other leading nations. The Vatican is interested, and the Protestant churches are fully cooperative."

RESPONSIBILITY TO ROOSEVELT

The federal farm relief bill, in which is incorporated provisions for controlled inflation of currency and lightening the farm mortgage load, has passed both houses, will shortly become a law. It is an extraordinary measure designed to meet an unprecedented condition.

The outstanding feature of the act is the unusual power it imposes upon President Roosevelt. While such has been characteristic of most emergency legislation enacted, no bill has yet been passed in which responsibilities of such magnitude are conferred upon the chief executive.

President Roosevelt through the Secretary of Agriculture, is empowered to undertake experiments in an effort to raise the price of farm products, control prices in so far as they may be controlled artificially in an effort to establish price levels on farm commodities that prevailed before the war.

Taxes may be levied upon processors, or manufacturers who turn the raw material of the farm into finished products. It is anticipated that money collected from these levies will be distributed among those farmers who qualify to share it by reducing acreage and production so as to cut down farm surpluses.

The farm aid phase of the bill is frankly conceded to be an experiment. Its enactment comes too late to permit wide application this year because planting has proceeded so far that the acreage limitation provision cannot be imposed. The legislation is so drafted that it may be abandoned in the event it proves impractical. There will be no necessity of waiting for Congress to repeal the law.

President Roosevelt has refused to deviate from the firm conviction that stable and permanent prosperity cannot be restored until the 60 million people on the farms of America find it possible to make a profit from their labors. Such a view is widely shared. Prosperity must have its origin in the grass roots of the farm.

Since all more orthodox methods of assistance to agriculture have failed the administration feels justified in trying new and unusual remedies. Under existing conditions of distress there is no justification for refusing to follow a course that offers possibility of being helpful simply because it is an unblazed trail.

There is incorporated in the farm bill a provision which has as its purpose the re-financing of agricultural indebtedness, extending of concessions to those whose farms are mortgaged through the Federal Land Banks. There can be no doubt that this provision will prevent thousands of farmers from being disposed of their homes, lighten their load by reducing interest payments and cutting annual payments they are required to make under existing mortgage contracts.

Another revolutionary phase of the bill is the provisions for inflation. Control of money and the entire financial system is more generally centered in the hands of the President than has ever been before, imposing upon him grave responsibilities. The wisdom with which this authority is exercised will have a far-reaching effect upon prices of all products, the values of our possessions, the well-being of this nation, affecting welfare of the entire world.

Such appalling responsibility as is conferred upon the President would frighten most men. Yet the man in the White house, who has a passion for service to his people, accepts the authority with cheerful confidence. There is reassurance in the fact that any or all of the power concentrated in the nation's chief may be exercised at his discretion. It is not mandatory that he put into effect all provisions of the measure. He may use any or all as he deems best for the general good. He may experiment, by trial and error seek to ascertain the most effective methods through which improvement may be hastened.

If these vast powers could be altered or repealed only by act of Congress the various measures would contain greater danger. Since to the judgment of the President is left application of the unprecedented authority the nation is quite willing to confer upon him these tremendous responsibilities. It is realized that conditions justify a concentration, great authority in the president to enable him to deal with the many intricate problems, the solution of which is imperative.

Congress cannot deal with the present situation in any way other than to delegate authority to the president to undertake the working out of plans that offer hope or relieving the distress that has been brought upon the nation by an economic catastrophe such as has never before befallen this people.

The president has at no time revealed any inclination to grasp for power to be exercised automatically. He has accepted such large authority placed on his shoulders in a humble attitude. He accepts it with confidence unafraid, serene in the belief that it can be effectively applied in restoring economic stability. Let us have confidence in his leadership, support him as he undertakes the biggest job which mortal man has ever tackled.

DAVELLA

While me and my mule were perusing the path up a "holder" on Wolfe creek (other day, we both were astonished to see an old gent up on the steep hill with his barlow knife skinned leatherwood. The first thought that struck us was that he was fixin' to amuse himself with a leatherwood whip, but after passing the usual "Howdy" and a comment or two about the weather, I was informed that he intended to use the leatherwood strips to hang up his meat. Meat! mind you when we thought everybody in Martin county depended on stores for this delicacy, and had forsaken this time honored way of living at home, we will venture to say that out of every 100 homes in the county, there are not 25 families in this hundred that have enough meat this time of the year to hang in a hollow tooth. Ben "berry" or buy a pig or two and revive the old-time custom of raising the meat supply at home from the "shop" that usually goes to the hound-dogs, when this is done fewer people will be on the rolls of charity organizations.

When deputy sheriffs were around the other day levying on real estate and personal property for taxes and posting their notices, I was reminded of a roundal sale notice I once saw posted which read something like this:
